The board decided to resubmit the same resolution as last year in connection with closing a section of College Ave. near the new Maplewood School to connect it with the Maplewood playground.

Harvey Butler, the board's representative on the Ottawa County Tax Allocation Commission, reported a 3-3 impasse in allocation decisions this year, and as a result the K-12 school districts in Ottawa county have retained the services of the Ten Cate, Townsend and Cunningham law firm in studying the proposed county budget which points to requested millage in excess of the 4.35 mills allocated last year.

Butler said the Ottawa County Board of Supervisors has referred Townsend's declaration to the county prosecutor and a reply is expected momentarily.

A brief progress report on new construction revealed that all contract work has been completed on Maplewood, Van Raalte and Longfellow Schools. Some additional hardware items requested by the fire marshal remain to be installed in Van Raalte School and some inspection items at Longfellow are awaiting the close of the school year. Final inspection of exterior work on the Community Swimming Pool has been completed. Some work remains to be done in the interior and in mechanical and electrical inspections.

The superintendent read letters from William H. Vande Water, Tulip Time manager thanking the schools for excellent cooperation during the Tulip Time festival, and from Marty Hardenberg for cooperation in the safety work among children. Hardenberg indicated work already is being done on next fall's safety program, further emphasizing safety with the backing of parents in the home.

A property use agreement with Zane Cooper on school bordered property on Washington Ave. was explained.

Board President James O. Lamb presented Russel Fredricks, retiring board member, with a framed resolution calling attention to his four years of service to the Board of Education and his great contributions through his efforts on committees of finance, buildings and grounds, and personnel and negotiations. Fredricks served as board vice president in 1967-68.

He does not plan to leave Holland immediately and will continue as a member of the Holland Board of Education for the time being. Lamb presided at the 45-minute meeting and Mossburg gave the invocation. John Keuning was absent.

4 Apartment Units Destroyed in Fire

An early morning fire caused an estimated $6,000 to $10,000 damage to an eight-unit apartment complex of Oakcrest Village Apartments under construction at 615 Ottawa Beach Rd. today.

The fire of undetermined origin broke out shortly after 6 a.m. Tuesday and was spotted by a neighbor who phoned in the alarm.

Holland Township Fire Chief Andrew Westenbroek said the building was completely enveloped by flames when firemen arrived at the scene. The two-story, L-shaped building was framed and covered with celotex, Westenbroek said. There had been some plumbing done.

The complex is owned by Edward Berends of Grand Rapids who said the building is covered by insurance. Fred Knoper of Zeeland is the builder.

It is believed fire broke out in the southeast side of the building, Westenbroek said. The State Fire Marshal is to be called in to investigate.

There were 26 firemen at the scene from Holland Township Departments Nos. 1, 2 and 3 who had the blaze under control within a half hour. They remained at the scene for about two hours. Equipment included two pumps and two tankers.

Westenbroek said four units of the 8-unit complex were destroyed. Firemen managed to save the other four. An adjoining portion of the main building was reportedly burned.

It is reported plans are being made to rebuild the destroyed units.

Allegan Parking Program Moves Into High Gear

City Manager, Kenneth Bollinger said the new lot should be ready for parking, if not paving by Christmas.

Planned in 1963 as one phase of the Scott Bagby Downtown Redevelopment Program, parking facilities were to be provided for approximately 700 cars within Allegan's four block business district—of which 450 spaces would be provided by off-street parking lots.

Originally estimated to cost over $200,000, the plan is being financed partly by city funds and by special assessments against 87 downtown properties, scheduled to raise $47,962.

MICHIGAN AND OUR SUMMER SEASON

With summer approaching Michigan at a fast pace, it would do well for us to remember the things all of us can do to continue the beauty of the state.

In other words, don't be a litter bug. The people charged with the maintenance of our streets, roads, parks and highways are busy and need our help to keep litter at a minimum.

If everyone accepts his responsibilities our summer problems will be lightened and we can all enjoy our beautiful state.

We recently read of a problem in a neighboring state to the north—Minnesota. It seems its citizens are currently disputing whether a freeway should run through Minnehaha Park.

We can understand their problem because the park has a national significance to most people as the site of the spectacular waterfall immortalized in Longfellow's epic poem, "The Song of Hiawatha."

The common problem of deciding where to draw the line on permitting roads and buildings that can destroy natural beauty is one that faces the people of every state.

America's natural heritage is dwinding. This is sometimes necessary but sometimes many people think it is not. We should take part in all decisions when it comes to making changes that will reduce the grass, trees and flowers that beautify our great out of doors.

Just remember that it takes time to create much of the natural beauty most people enjoy and take for granted.

Faith and Works
James 2:14-26
By C. P. Dame

Let us look at the epistle of James since we are going to study three lessons from it.
The writer calls himself, "a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ." He was the Lord's brother—see Gal. 1:19, Matthew 13:55. He became a believer in Jesus after our Lord's resurrection (1 Cor.
15:7) but did not believe before that (John 7:5). He was bishop of the church in Jerusalem, and the head of the Jewish party in the church, lived a strict life, was highly regarded by the people who called him the Righteous. He presided at the conference of church leaders which admitted Gentiles to the church. He was martyred by the Jews.

The epistle belongs to the group called General or Catholic Epistles. It deals with ethics, not with theology, and it discusses the sins of believers, not of the pagans, emphasizing conduct more than creed.
The epistle is addressed to the "twelve tribes in the Dispersion," a term designating God's people, Jewish Christians. It was written about 60 A. D.
This lesson teaches that a living faith expresses itself in deeds.

1. A dead faith is worthless.
The man who says he has faith but does no deeds to prove it has no real faith. James takes an example from daily life. A believer is in need and someone says to him, "Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled," but does nothing about his need. He has no faith.
Many people live in need today—some because they do not care, others because they can't help it. They need help. Those who help show their faith.
And how? By helping.

2. A living faith expresses itself in good deeds. James gives us two examples. First he mentions Abraham, the father of all the faithful. By willing to offer up Isaac, his son, he revealed his faith in God, and in His promises. Some think that there is a conflict between Paul and James about faith but this is not so. Note that Paul contrasts the man who tries to win salvation by the keeping of the law with the man who has faith in Christ's atoning work, while James contrasts the man who makes pious platitudes but does noting, with the man who is quiet but ministers to human needs.

The second person James mentions is Rahab whose story is recorded in Joshua 2. Israel's army was about to march into Palestine. Joshua sent two men to spy out the country round about Jericho. These spies and saved the lives of of Rahab, a woman whose morals were bad. She hid the
the men, because she had faith in God, in whom she believed. She made the men promise that they would deal kindly with her father's house.
A sign was agreed upon.
James says that it was the woman's faith that made her do what she did. Her faith made her risk her own life and act to save the lives of the spies. Note that Rahab is included in the genealogy of Christ (Matthew 15) and in the famous list of the heroes of faith recorded in Hebrews 11.

This lesson drives home the truth that faith is important but it must be a living faith that expresses itself in good deeds. Let us not however conclude that a person is saved by good deeds. This trend is popular today. We are saved by faith in Jesus Christ and we reveal our faith by kind and useful deeds.

Offer Rejected By Trade Union

Holland area contractors were informed Friday that Local 19 (bricklayers, cement finishers and plasterers of Holland) has rejected their proposal for wage increases for 1968-69.

Contractors had offered an increase of 35 cents an hour each year to bricklayers and 45 cents a year to cement finishers at a meeting May 30 in the offices of Elzinga and Volkens, Inc. Plasterers were to be brought even with bricklayers under the proposal.

Contractors were informed by a spokesman of local 19 that the membership voted down the proposal as insufficient in light of unprecedented demands made by carpenters in the southwest area that are still pending.

Construction projects have come to a halt all over Michigan. In Holland, work has ceased or slowed down on several major projects. Work on the new hospital addition and the power plant addition has all but stopped.

I'M TELLING YOU! — Jan Sturgeon as the blonde in "Born Yesterday" tells off Gordon Cunningham, the brash junk man, in Holland Community Theatre's last play of the season which opened Thursday night in Holland High School. Rounding out these two roles was Don Battjes Jr. as the reporter. (Holland Photography photo)

Community Theatre Opens Durable Political Comedy

"Born Yesterday," the durable comedy on the Washington political scene, opened Thursday night in Holland High School auditorium as the last presentation of the season of the Holland Community Theatre, Inc.

Although the rather small audience was in air conditioned comfort, the heat of the day and the Kennedy assassination affected the normal enthusiasm of such an opening. But as the play unfolded the audience was caught up in the great lines of Garson Kanin's comedy and the plusses far exceeded the minuses of the production.

Jan Sturgeon in her first major role as Billie Dawn may have appeared too poised and lady-like for the brassy chorus girl in the first scenes but she "grew" into the role and "took over the play" as she went through a hysterical scene at the close of the second act.

City Attorney Gordon Cunningham had a great time in the role of the domineering junk man Harry Brock, living at the top of his voice in all three acts. Balance was provided by Donal Battjes Jr. as reported Paul Verrall who developed Billie's brain providing courage for dumping the whole establishment.

Richard Burkholder as the mild-mannered legal consultant provided excellent contrast to the loud fast-talking junk man, and his performance with that of Battjes provided just the right balance to the other sharply defined characters.

Leslie Woltman was well cast as the senator, seemingly able but not above considering an $80,000 bribe and Mary Van Langevelde appeared as his wife who struggled to find some conversational gambit with the dumb blonde.

Others in the cast were Roy Seibert as the insignificant brother of the junk man, Jean Wagner as the maid, Alan Wilson and Bob Lucas as bellhops, Don Crammer as a waiter, Philip Kimberly as a barber, and Norman Sturgeon (son of the leading lady) as a bootblack.

Competing with the cast was a luxurious set designed by Dale Conklin amply reflecting the aplomb that goes with a $235 a day hotel suite.

Since several cast members were in major roles for the first time, the success of the play attested to particular efforts of the director, Nona Penna, who has played a number of leading roles for Community Theatre in the past.

Phillip Schaap, James Schripsema, Nancy Smith, Leonard Sowers, Dawn Stassen, David Steggerda, Mark Stroop, Douglas Swanson, Mira Tidd, Kathleen Tobias, Steven Townsend, Katherine and Bunte, Charles Vander Brook, Julie Vander Werf, Mark Van Dokkumberg, and Kristine Van Fleet.
